

secutor, was next to g articles having be 465 matches, 160 p

4 keys, 56 lockets,
5 brooches, 2 bracelets
diamond earrings

Dance this week to adore the relics of St. Louis, are then and there to be exposed, understood that a member of the Upper Ten, related to the President, had been resolved to take to the road and will make his debut at Drury Lane after the run of "Cousin Sam" at Easter. — The Orchestra.

THE FRIEDLAND CASE. — THE PROSECUTION OF CONNELL. — Mr. Connel, a young man, who has been in the army, was yesterday brought before the Court by Mr. Rutherford Clark and Mr. May as the gentlemen selected to conduct the defence case of Dr. Friedland. No further particulars of interest have transpired, and the trial is expected to take place on the 26th of June next.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT IN FRANCE. — The Corps Legislatif discussed the abolition of death punishment, but though abolition was recommended by all the eloquence of M. Favre, who was supported by the majority of the Chamber, the proposition was negatived by 325 to 24. This large majority proves that the abolition of capital punishment has, as yet, far less success in France than in England. — The French.

THE ARRIVAL OF THE "MERCURY." — THE "MERCURY," arrived in the Mersey on Sunday, from Buenos Ayres, has been the first ship to arrive from that port since the 10th of May.

drop something, and chopping up in the

and that she will shortly be placed in the merciful service. At present she flies the Confederate ensign as penit.

Gen Garibaldi has just sent the following letter to M. Commanent, of Le Siecle, to thank him for a presentation copy of a new work, "Le Danemark et qu'il est." "Paris, April 4, 1865.—Esteemed Sir.—I thank you for your work on Denmark. The cause of peoples, in whatever country, humanity declares itself, is ever a holy cause. I, writer, who advocates and propagates it, honours him who has his country. I am grateful for your kind sentiments towards myself, still more for those which you feel for my country.—G. GARIBOLDI.

CAPTAIN COLONEL'S CARE.—The case of Captain Colborne, who was charged with publishing a libel on Mr. Lincoln, has been referred to the Central Criminal Court.

of his head and
tion till he was rele

The jury returned a verdict of guilty, coupled with a strong and special recommendation to mercy. The order sentenced Captain Colburne to pay a fine of £200 and Queen.

THE LIFE OF JULIUS CÆSAR.—The Emperor has sent Life of Cæsar to each of the five sections of the French Academy for their library. A secret committee is now sitting to consider whether a letter of thanks should be sent to his Majesty, there having been some opposition in the Institute at this step. The manager of a circus at Berlin announces he will shortly bring out at his theatre an equestrian act, the subject of which is taken from the Emperor's life.

M. BREST, Q.C., the Conservative candidate for the seat vacated by the death of Mr. Colburn, addressed a meeting of his supporters on Saturday evening. In the

Miscellaneous Notes

[illegible]

of March were issued balance in hand at

employed by all the principal firms street cars, and the fact that the latter had been in the hands of the same men had convinced the demands of the men. The fact that the men had been in the hands of the same men had convinced the demands of the men. The fact that the men had been in the hands of the same men had convinced the demands of the men.

before I go up!" and

[illegible]

...the engineers, to
...and is to have
...line of 100 feet

his refusal to give him any. This provoked John, who with a great deal of ill-language, committed an assault on James and used extraordinary violence toward him. In the course of the assault, which James did resist, he took out his knife, and plunged it into his brother's left side, causing a deep laceration which extended to and penetrated the lung. Everything that medical skill could suggest for the case was tried, but the man lost so much blood, and appeared to sink so rapidly, that the physician was obliged to take his deposition. The poor fellow gave a clear statement of what took place, and he blamed himself for what had occurred, stating that it is not been for the attack he made on his brother would have retaliated. Contrary to expectation, the man lingered on, and on Sunday he was much better than on Friday. Medical attendants expected he would be, but he was

Wales, to Mr. M'Ke...

he had his knife open eating something with it.

