BAZAAR AT BLACKHILL.

On Monday afternoon, a bazaar in aid of a organ, and alterations to the Wesleyan Chapel Schools, at Blackhill, was opened by W. J. Esq., J.P. A large gathering assembled at the opening ceremony. A prayer having been said up by the Rev. H. Smith,

The Rev. J. SHEARMAN said that the question of the enlargement of the Sunday School, and the idea of having a new organ for the chapel, under discussion a few months ago. They came to the conclusion that some effort should be made, in prospect of the enlargement of the school— or chase of an organ. At any rate, it was a happy thought that that effort should take the form of a bazaar.

Since that time the ladies had worked energetically, as the large number of articles presented today would give abundant proof. In conclusion the rev. gentleman congratulated the friends and trustees of the church on the happy choice of the had made in asking Mr. Jenkins, so honourable so well known in this neighbourhood, to be sent to open the bazaar.

Christian friends, Mr. Smith, in his very appropriate prayer, and Mr. Shearman, in his remarks, have said all that I think need be said on this occasion, but I may express my pleasure in co-operation here on this bright, but cold Easter Monday, and assist in any way in my power to forward the terests of the friends of this place of Divine play. I congratulate you on the wonderful display of good things exhibited here, and must have had the willing hands and chearful hearts of a large number of ladies to bring such a show. It is with you, as it is with manner which it seems to yourselves best.

Another in the field of politics, Mr. Gladstone, is by his wonderful gifts guiding our course in this country. You too, my dear child, and I want, to hear the action in the working of your circle. I do think that you are aiming at procuring an organ for music in a place of worship, in my opinion, is to the spontaneous congregational singing method have often been accustomed to. But in the many other districts there is a great advance in the cultivation of the art of music, and highly creditable to those in this locality who have made such progress, but I hope artistic efforts will not be too prominent to the exclusion of the custom of congregational singing. You are wishing to enlarge your Sunday School.

training, but such have been the remalike many other localities, a new impulse is advice to the large number of young people tending a Sunday School or place of worship, do lay but be active—quick in identifying selves closely with these, and you will repent it. I feel that I have trespassed over connection with the above school were conducted by the Rev. C. Longstaff, of Whitby, on Wednesday afternoon, and evening. There were large congregations at all the services, and liberal collections were taken. The children recited select portions of scripture, poetry, and dialogues in a creditable manner.

On Monday afternoon the children had their annual tea, which they seemed to thoroughly enjoy. The public tea party was held afterwards, and a goodly number sat down to the excellent repast provided. The tables were gracefully set over by Misses Robson, Smith, and Manned.

Following a service of song entitled, "The start was beautifully rendered by the choir and the connective readings being given by A. Latimer, and the singing being under leadership of Mr. A. S. Coates. Mr. Thorpe presided at the harmonium with his usual

THE ENGLISH LAND QUESTION.

Mr. Clara Bewell Land, addressing a meeting of the Norfolk Chamber of Agriculture on Tuesday last, said that she was in favor of the abolition of all land taxation wherever it was abolished, but that she was in favor of all taxes as well as those which increased the value of the land, and she was in favor of the lower. Unless rents were reduced otherwise the percentage, a square m. must eventually take the place of the present one. The motive force for the extinction of the estate plague was the same as the disease. This outcome of distress was the result of the same cause. The motive force for the adoption. He thought this country would be absorbed by America, and notwithstanding our own resources, we were not able to compete with the Dutch, mass hunters, or perhaps the harbor.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—The Hour of Disease commonly comes on with slight symptoms, which, when neglected, increase in severity. Catarrhs of the bowels—a condition symptoms, not only do they indicate the incipient disease. Patients find a full
