A BIBLE CANVASER ASSAULT: Wilden, ironworker, Blackhill, hitting John Corbett, bookseller, 10, St. Andrew's street.—

—Complainant stated that in addition to his trade of travelling with books, he had been in the month of February for a Family Bible Society canvasser, and that on the 10th inst. he called at defendant's residence, and was in the act of handing defendant's wife a card, and a minutes till her husband came out. After stepping a short time, he bade her go out again, and went up to the Pattersons' public-house, where he took hold of him by the collar, and said, "I will knock his soul out," calling out vile names, shoved his clenched fist into his coat—William Sartoes, who was a medical complainant, gave corroborative evidence. Sartoes was not willing for him to be a defendant afterwards brought it to a close, and threw it on his (witness) and did not strike complainant, but
