SHOCKING DEATH OF A BOY.
The youngest was held on Tuesday morning at the New Station, Concord, before Mr. John Graham, judge, in the body of a boy named Benjamin

Consett Inquiries, the father, living in "Puddies" house, Consett, reported that he was a "butter-man" at Consett Iron Company's works. The Saturday evening, about 5.30, domestic servant Miss Lesie Jones in the butter-rabbin. He left the place for a errand to go into No. 44, and on his return he was told that the boy was not there. He left the place for a errand to go into No. 44, and on his return he was told that the boy was not there. He left the place for a errand to go into No. 44, and on his return he was told that the boy was not there.

Upon returning, witness, a feeling came over him respecting the boy, and on searching for him, found him lying on the ground. Upon his back, the right side of the railway, about 15 yards from the place where he had left him. A "peel" for charging the locomotive was going south. He was stretched out on his back, and the head (weighing about four or five pounds) was on his neck. The "peel" was down or right along, it was a round bar with a handle, and made of iron. The boy was a new one found, he was a fugitive standing on the foot-plate at side of the "peel," and witness supposed the man had been laid on the rails. Witness thought the boy had been playing on the "peel."

He overbalanced it. His back and all beneath him were there any longer, except a touch on one side of the floor. In the hands of the "old" man he moved daintily to the end pressed to the back and the weight of his hands spread out against the wall. He was now as steady as the face was back. The old man was a doctor, but the friends of the "old" man, he said, would be upon the old man at ten o'clock when he got there. The "old" man had accustomed to go with his father's meals about months, had never previously been any further from the cabin, and had always stayed there when he tried to put in his time toward. Wm. never tried artificial respiration to restore animation, but his efforts were of no avail.

F. M. Stodds, of Des Moines, Wyo., Blackhill, also he jury thought a boy of the age should not be permitted to enter the works. The father explained that his son was outside works, and they made a very long path from the mill to the river. He could see the boy lying with his head as soon as he reached the top of the hill. Moreover, there was no danger on a Saturday afternoon, when all the men had left work.

The Coroner said it was a touching and pathetic story. The little boy was waiting for his father to come, and, feeling the time was very long, had

The jury returned a verdict of "Accidentally fatal."
The funeral of the deceased subsequently took place at Benfieldside Cemetery. The casket was exceptionally large one, and reached fully a yard in height. The father being a leader of the Christian Brethren sect, heartfelt sympathy has been shown to the bereaved parents by the various glorious bodies in the town.

On Tuesday afternoon, the following were elected:

SELECTION OF CHAIRMAN AND VICE-CHAIRMAN.
On the proposal of Mr Wm. Ramsey seconded by F. Walker, Mr Wm. Gilroy was re-elected chairman for the ensuing third year. The Messrs Fern was also nominated for the office, but declined to stand.

The Rev G. H. Ross-Lewis proposed, and the Rev E. W. Jenkins seconded, the appointment of Mr A. Billie as vice-chairman, and this was carried unanimously.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEES.
The committees were selected as follows:—
Finance.—Messrs Ross-Lewis, W. Jenkins, and Baker.
School Attendance.—Messrs Fern, Billie, and

ADDITIONS TO BOARD SCHOOLS.

A long discussion arose with regard to the contemplated alterations and additions to the Board school, and eventually the plans were approved of and sealed.

This was moved by Rev G. H. Ross Lewis, and seconded by FATHER FORAN.

MEADOWSLEY SCHOOL BOARD.

On Monday night, a special meeting was held in the Board-room, Meadowsley, Mr. H. Harris chairman, presiding. Also present Messrs. Jamieson, W. Fenwick, W. R. Cooke, and Wm. Jamieson.—There were three applications for the of clerk the place of the late Mr. M. Copeland, and Mr. J. H. Copeland, son of the late clerk, was unanimously appointed. Miss M. H. of Edinburgh was chosen a mistress of the Edinburgh School, at a salary of £50 per annum. This was all the business.

DANGEROUS BRIDGE AT WILKINSON MILL.

SAD DEATH OF A CHILD.

On Tuesday evening, an inquest was held at Wilkin Mill, before Mr. G. Rogers, J. Graham, and a jury of Lillie's, Henry, aged one year and ten months, who died on Sunday morning last on the effects of a fall on the Saturday. From evidence as it seems that at about 11 o'clock Saturday morning last, the distressed child was lying on a footbridge which crosses the Dorwent Wulstan Mill. She was looking through the rails at one side of the bridge, which are rather deep apart, and whilst doing so she overbalanced herself, and fell down on to the top of the stream moat, a distance of 20 feet. There was no witness to her fall, and she struck the stones with her head, and was rendered insensible. She was discovered the occurrence by a woman who was passing at the time, and who, as she was unable to give any further particulars, she was unable to pick the child up. A woman, who was passing at the time, on being told what had happened, went out to where the child was lying, and picking her up, brought her home to her mother, Mrs. Beaufort. Medical aid was summoned, and Dr. W. H. de Villintous, was present, we found the child suffering from serious injuries, the chief of which was one on the head, which had caused excoriation of the brain. Everything possible was done to relieve the child at one o'clock on the Sunday morning. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death, adding a note to the effect that, in their opinion, the bridge, on account of the great distance between the cause on each side of it, was in a very dangerous state, and suggesting that the local authorities in the neighborhood ought to do something in the matter.
