

WOLSTINGHAM COUNTY COURT

MARLEY HILL BRANCH.
Tuesday evening, the usual monthly meeting was held in the school-room. An interesting programme, consisting of duets, recitations, violin solos, and readings, as rendered to the entire satisfaction of the audience. The local members—viz., Messrs. Riley, T. Maddison, F. Bone, Messrs. W. and W. Dewhurst, and Agnes Dewhurst, ably assisted by Miss Nicholson, a White-leader, who sang two songs in a pleasing manner. Appleby and his two clever little boys, quite brought down the house with their rendering of a number of suitable recitations. Master Allen also received much

Thanks was given to the visitors for their coming to assist. One of the most useful of these increasingly popular entertainments was brought to a close by the usual song. The proceeds, which amounted to $14, are to be presented to one of the men who has had a protracted attack, namely, for the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, who were the Lords of the Manor. The following riders were sworn on the jury:—Messrs Burdon, Waugh, Thompson, Wall, Hall, Ester, Sloan, Newmarsh, Parker, Turner, Beside; Cummings, Brooks; Robson, and Gallely, Sattley.

Greeves proved the publication of the writ of the Court within the several townships of the Manor, and paid the costs of the absent riders.

And the jury being sworn, the STWARD read them the following charges:

in strictness at the New public Court, at were bound to attend. Every copyholder sorely in the Manor of Waverham, it been customary for the Greaves of the townships to answer for the names of the holders within each township, who were paying 1d for each name, and thus they entitled to collect from those absent with a B-ritannal sum by way of remuneration to Greaves for their trouble in the matter. Some ago, the jury in this Man r assessed the him that the Greeves' remuneration was less reluctantly paid and often refused. He said was if the Greeves returned the any copyholder who refused in that way wledge his obligation to attend the Lords' he would take care that on some future he was summoned to attend in person, and to his attendance, he would subject to a fine which would far exceed the demanded by the Greeves. The Steward told them that with the exception of attending the Lords' Court, which was usually held for the Lord's Court, the copyholders between copyholds and freeholds was the former case the dealings with property ranges of ownership were required to be on the Court Roll, as each tenant on the roll died or surrendered his interest. The lord was bound to pre-vent the deaths of copyholders which were within their knowledge on the Court Roll, and, if, after three proclamations made by three successive Courts, the person next to the property did not come in and be sworn, the Lords of the Manor were entitled to possession of the copyhold tenement.
