AT DIFTON.—
The steamer was attacked by a large school of porpoises yesterday night, when it was towed. The ship was rounded, and the porpoises retired. The captain, Mr. J. H. Dutton, was informed by the crew that the porpoises were attacking the ship. He ordered the ship to be towed to the shore, and the porpoises were driven off. The ship was then towed to the shore, and the porpoises were driven off. The ship was then towed to the shore, and the porpoises were driven off.
