SUNDAY-SCHOOL UNION.

Quarterly committee and teachers' council met on Saturday at Tanfield Lea. Bro. W. was appointed chairman, in the unavoidable absence of Rev John Magee by affliction. The following schools were represented:—Stanley, Tanfield Lea, and Tanfield Moor.

The following encouraging reports were received from the various quarters:

The schools throughout the whole circuit are in a prosperous condition, for which we praise to the Heavenly Father was the election of officers for next year as follows:—Rev J. Magee, president; Wm. Atkinson, vice-president; Mr P. Reay, Geo. Bainbridge, treasurer. Commissioners, C. H. Morgan, and A. G. Morgan, for West Nelson; J. Rumbey, W. and R. Kay, for Stanley; P. Reay, W. and G. Dearing, for Annfield Plain; and H. Harris, for Oxhill; E. Heap, M. Pease, J. Hope, for Craghead; W. Reay,

A VANDERBILT VILLAGE.—Mr. W. Lovell writes: Referring to your notice of Mrs. Girling, it may be of interest to note that the old graveyard where stood the old crustern church of Moodie—once in the middle of the village—is now only a hundred yards from the sea. Nothing of it remains except some blocks of grey wathers used for the foundation, and two large tables used for the foundation.

These are the stones which were removed. Very interesting are those stones brought up from the shore, where now and then one or two may be seen at low tide tumbled from the drift above—the same as those at Stonehenge, left on the top of the chalk. Jont, too, are its mill and its six salters, mentioned in Domesday, and the village itself removed inland. The salters, however, dredging for oysters stone or fish, sometimes draw up great quantities of wood.

usually known as "moose," which may perhaps tell of the saltness or the time when the forest stretched to the sea. The saltness of the NORMANS and old English have suffered very different fates. In Normandy the sea no longer reaches to their piers, whilst here it has long since rolled over them.

THE OLDEST TOWN IN THE UNITED STATES—The oldest town in TEXAS, and it is believed in the United States, is YALETA, situated about community of that name. It has a population of 2,600 souls. The place is one of peculiar interest, alike from its age, its people, its architecture, its agriculture, and its general products. It is a well-established historical fact that a Spanish military explorer named Coronado visited the town in 1540, and found it then a populous and prosperous civilized Indian community. He was immediately have been a considerable centre of population centuries before the visit of Cortado. It is not a curious, considering the advance of civilization from Europe, that the same race of people in the town to-day as existed 350 years ago, and that they are engaged in the same agricultural and mechanical pursuits as their forefathers at that period and for ages preceding.

58-66 volume of this magazine, published by years. Macmillan, more than justifies the conclusion with which the work was originally started. Both artists and writers have done their best to give it a high place in English periodical literature, and the result is a magazine which has no rival, in England at least, artistically considered, and from a literary point of view it is truly one of the best.

...the illustrations are good, they do not, as is the case with some publications, merely produce and apologise for each other. But, after all, the illustrations are necessarily the salient feature of this illustrated magazine, and it may fairly be said of them that they will not only hit the public taste, but will do much to improve it. For the beautiful and the picturesque one need not leave England, nor, to judge from the series far from Charing Cross itself, though perhaps are less interesting than the views of eter, Newcastle, Yarmouth, and the decayed ports of Sandwich and Rye. The drawings are ly English, but those of Bidey, Umbria, and randy should also be mentioned. There are ventures for the adventurous in the illustrations field sports and of lifeboat work, and jovial stemen, of the Newcastle Swan.

Figure 1 is a line graph showing the percentage of total sample for each age group (0-14, 15-24, 25-34, 35-44, 45-54, 55-64, 65+) across different years (1970, 1980, 1990, 2000, 2010, 2020). The y-axis represents the percentage of total sample, ranging from 0 to 100. The x-axis represents the years. The 0-14 age group shows a steady decline from about 25% in 1970 to 10% in 2020. The 15-24 age group shows a slight increase from about 15% in 1970 to 20% in 2020. The 25-34 age group shows a slight increase from about 10% in 1970 to 15% in 2020. The 35-44 age group shows a slight increase from about 10% in 1970 to 15% in 2020. The 45-54 age group shows a slight increase from about 10% in 1970 to 15% in 2020. The 55-64 age group shows a slight increase from about 10% in 1970 to 15% in 2020. The 65+ age group shows a slight increase from about 10% in 1970 to 15% in 2020.
