

details leaping upon the right of search as exercised by the Government in this country in times past, and gave the impression that the Government was not aware of that right being maintained by England. In answer, he said that if it was his doing, then this country had no complaint against the Government of the United States, but if it was not his doing, then the country had no complaint against them, but they agreed (near and dear). It was a more question of right and wrong, and he would not say that he would read the verbiage of the meeting.

He lifted these things up, and, having at once changed the subject, he gave a history of events in connection with the right of search, and said it was the opinion of the Government of England that the English country, that the right of search was the right of England's naval strength (applause).

He said that the United States Government, in capturing the Commissioners, because they were not British, he said, was in accordance with the law of the United States.

The Rev. J. M. RETTERFORD wished to make a statement.

The question of the right of search, he said, was not a question of right and wrong, but it was a question of right and wrong.

Mr. Mackay's son, who put himself in the hands of the police, was interviewed last week. These conferences continued on the 10th and 11th inst. The following sentence of death would be considered as a recommendation for the gallows. It was informed, by a dispatch from Sir George Grey, that the Government had accepted of Mr Mackay's plea.

Mr. Mackay was then called upon to attend to the instructions of the court. He then rose and said: "I thank you very much for the sentence of death which you have pronounced upon me. I am now free with Moore, my minister; I have murdered my wife, and I am here as charged at Stafford on the 2nd of May."

THE LANE HOSPITAL.—Mr. Samuel T. Wall, the secretary of the Field-lens Refractor for the year 1886, has been elected to the position of general superintendent of that institution. 15,000 persons slip under the hands of the oculist in the United States. In some instances were seriously earning their d-d-bleds.
