

expressions contained in the advertisement to him. He would take the other side of the Atlantic and ... American people what he had seen ed on this side, and do all he could

[illegible]

his colleagues have held a meeting at applications for certificates on behalf to the committee, and the various things upon or behalf of many of them. I have not time to read a list of the crimes to which Breadth, with an intimation that the execution would have a criminal concern with respect to the other things, and also upon the same in verses. The conclusions formed to them, the secretary of the Science and Art department to grant a consideration to express the thanks of the society and to the committee for their services. The committee said: "No. I wish them to be considered as of terrible crimes, things of any degree of atrocity; and although the committee have been drawing from these revelations will be the greatest of the mission. The committee will present such a report to the public it to put the nation in a better position to the crimes of the of the heart, but also the other various are in the same way, have been and, and my colleagues believe, great in—however painful the inquiry has and to the country generally. The was closed.

melancholy case of drowning. Mr agee and undertaker, of Newcastle, }

At the watering place with his wife on Wednesday morning he went down to his boat, mortally wounded by the gentlemen. It appears on Saturday a strong north-easterly sea was blowing a very disturbing effect upon the water, and the men were then calling "bunks." At seven o'clock during the tide was half flood, and the vessel by the water. The spot at which had entered was tolerably shallow, and the gentleman suddenly stepped over the water and plunged into deep water, not a swimmer, it is stated, and it is conjectured that he was the same Cooper's struggles in the water were alarm given to the others. There was a slight swell before any official aid could be rendered, and the vessel was then in danger and was downed. Philip Boyd, one of the sailors on the coast, hearing the alarm, rushed to the spot, and found the the water in less than half-an-hour after life was extinct. In something like he descended left the house where he sought back to the village a corpse. Only Jack and the doctor and a few friends in Newcastle, to whom his greatly endeared him. The deceased has about 20 years of age, has left a wife, with whom deep sympathy will

THE VIOLETRY OF EGYPT

Egypt reached London on Saturday evening at 1 o'clock, from Paris, and was met by the Lord Chamberlain, the Lord-Lieutenant, the Lord Mayor, the Lord-Lieutenant, of five cars, commanded cars. Soon after leaving the French was met by H. M.'s frigate Liverpool, commanded by Captain Seymour, and accompanied by thirty-five cars, commanded by the British vessels saluted the escorted her to Dover, where the Viceroy of Egypt had four hundred commandant of the garrison, Captain Col. Elwyn, R.A., Captain Harvey,

U.S. Army, Admiralty Superintendents of the Queen's Royal Land Fort Government, and Colonel Stanton, and by Mr Watkin, M.F., the Hon. Sir, and Mr Knight on the part of the Admiralty. As the Victory landed, the National Anthem, and a guard of honour, the correct form a salute, and a cheer for the ship, maned the yards. The first refreshment at the Lord Nelson reception for London by the South-Eastern pierage at half past five. The train arrived at 7.15. The first refreshment for water, as previously arranged; the Admiralty, who had been at the Highness. The Chinese Cross station arrived in honour of the Victory's commission was carried with flowers, and six were raised on the Victory's pier, containing men and flowers hung from the Victory. The first refreshment was made for the Victory. The first refreshment was made for the Victory. The first refreshment was made for the Victory.

hanging from the lamp posts, and one over the gateway of the station. A

[illegible]

in the grace of patience, and raised his neck many times in acknowledgment of

The Viceroy reached London eight o'clock. Later in the evening he was entertained by Sir John Lubbock and Gen. Seymour at the Italian Opera, at Covent Garden, to witness the performance of "Fra Diavolo." The party paid a box.

On Monday morning the Viceroy and Lady Egypt went on a visit to Windsor. He was accompanied by the Duke of Devonshire, who was very kind and had an enthusiastic reception at the Castle for the Viceroy.

The Viceroy dined with Her Majesty, and then returned to the Castle for the night.

100

