NOTES FROM CASTLESIDE.

The schools break up for their summer holiday on the 17th inst., and resume on July 15th.

The weather has been all that could have been desired for the Whiteside holidays, but there has been so much holiday during the last twelve weeks that pleasure seekers found pleasure in the fact that the strike had come to an end. Strikes are an old-fashioned way of settling disputes, and should only be resorted to when all other means fail. The strike at Whiteside would have done well to have

The Wakerley Primitive Methodists celebrated their Sunday-school anniversary on Saturday and Sunday. On Saturday, the children were regaled with tea and cakes. At night, a public meeting was held in the school-room, when addresses were given by Messrs A. S. Coates, A. Stoddard, and W. Barrow, Comstock, the chair being occupied by Mr J. Bixley, Castleisle. The report, read by Mr J. Goriand, showed the school to be in a very healthy

The thunderstorm which visited the district on Monday night of an unprecedented nature. To some it was unequalled for grandeur, but to the nervous it was terrific. The effects of the storm were rather serious. Sewers were stopped, and much damage was done to roadways. A villager (Mr Robinson), who was leading coals from Grey Mare Hill, was overtaken by the storm. His horse

On Monday night, whilst Mr Reveridge's milkmaid and boy were returning from Blackhill with the milk-cart, the horse took fright. After passing 8-1/2 by Lodge, and dashing down the hill at a great speed, it knocked part of the wall down at the opposite side of the road. The cart was upset and its occupants were thrown with great violence on the road. Happily for both the young woman, and boy there were a number of people near the spot and they rendered them assistance. Mr and Mrs

Dryden, Front Street, Consett, who were out for a drive, came on the scene and rendered valuable assistance by taking them into their conveyance and driving them home, and also sending a messenger for a doctor. On reaching home Mr Dryden was assisted in his ambulance work by Mr

J. Thompson and the writer, who called to their assistance Mrs F. Symm, Mrs J. Thompson, and Mrs W. Pattinson, Castleisle. Mrs Beveridge, who seems a very kindly lady, rendered all the assistance she could until such time as Dr A. D. M. Macintyre arrived. They are fortunately, but

The Castleside Brass Band is becoming popular, their services are being sought after. On Monday, they visited the old and pleasant village of Blanchland, travelling by brake, and giving their services in aid of a new band for Blanchland. They thoroughly enjoyed the day's outing. On Tuesday, the band rendered valuable service at the cricketers' picnic at Rowley, which was a great success.

A public meeting was held in the Board School on Monday night. On account of the pile-nile there were few who put in an appearance—pile-nile are more popular than public meetings. The object were to re-establish or re-organise the Liberal Association in the Castlefield polling district. The following officers were appointed: President, Mr. H. B. ...

secretary, Mr J. Thompson; and treasurer, Mr J. Ripley. A large committee was appointed to work the division.
