is something to be said in the defence, certain humility of mind that a person should acknowledge himself incapable of originality, to follow humbly a beaten track than to blaze in some other way, however unpardonable a crime. Where some one has benefitted thousands of people, sought after by all on that account, it is foolish for any one ignorant of the truth to cast upon unsuspecting people a stone.

Of course the worst example of fraudulence

The reason is these medicines are simply a refined vegetable extract, and they supply the body with their nutritive properties. The body has the power to throw off all the waste of the system. One out of every four physicians' patients is a nervous person; and the doctors in question will administer poisons as much as they can, and the patient will be worse. Doctors condemn bleeding, and a novel doctor twenty years ago, when he was showing the body by taking away that which is necessary to life and to build it up. Price, 25c.
