tolerance and ignorance. There never was a military forcing upon the Government a bill which had been five times rejected. The Government had received no allegation of new circumstances which would justify the measure. Lord Salisbury had received no information that there had been any change in the country, which was heartily sick of the measure, and would suffer him to trade upon it. It was not the question of the Government, but of the country, which was heartily sick of the measure, and would suffer him to trade upon it. by the statistics which had been collected at the instance of the Government themselves, and it was almost to be expected that the working classes would be so impressed that the change, sweeping as it was, which the bill proposed, would put a stop to further agitation. On the contrary, the working classes would become awake to the consciousness of their power, and would renew the agitation for further concessions with redoubled vigour. Referring to the support which Mr. Bright gave to the Government, Mr. Lowe quoted passages from the speeches of the member for Birmingham, to show that hitherto the question to which he attached the highest importance was the maintenance of peace, which was altogether untouched by the present bill. Mr. Bright, however, was acting con-

Of the counties in England, western Police Districts have the highest disease. In ten counties no cases have occurred during the week; fourteen increasing of 1,239 cases during the week show a decrease of 2,932 cases during a fatal dog case during the week. England, 1,691 cases. Of the ten counties remain free from the disease no cases have been reported in the week; four counties show an increase of 1,000 cases during the week during the week in the counties of game.
