THE ORTONS.

WE are having the days of the Tichborne case in many ways. On one hand, we have that Arthur Orton was removed from the gate to Milbank on Saturday last, and he then weighed 392lbs. On the other hand we have Charles Orton, Mrs. Jury, Tredgett, and Mrs. Pittendreich writing to say that the other in the daily papers.

we are more puzzled than even by the dence at the trial. Charles Orton led a dance with a letter that seemed genuin it had the ring of an ordinary workin about it. But his sisters followed epistles that were obviously never writt females. The male hand, the business even the legal hand, peeped through letters. Again on Monday Charles Orton, Mrs. Pittendreich came into the field only to twist the Orton sisters with the falsehoods of their letters. In all this correspondence we see only one thing really worthy of notice. Mrs. Jury had said they could not stand by and see a fellow-creature, into penal servitude for fourteen years, and she had been a husband and child.

without raising her voice, and Charles says that is exactly what his sisters have done. This is what makes their present so entirely valueless. If they could not forward and give their evidence up, as they suppose we are going to believe, they would have been able to do so before.

SATURDAY, MARCH 21st, 1874.

THE ORTONS.

We are having the days of the Tichborne case in many ways. On one hand, we hear that Arthur Orton was removed from Newgate to Milbank on Saturday last, and that he then weighed 392lbs. On the other hand we have Charles Orton, Mrs. Jury, Mr. Tredgett, and Mrs. Pittendreigh writing against the other in the daily papers, and we are more puzzled than ever by the evidence at the trial. Charles Orton led off the dance with a letter that seemed genuine, it had the ring of an ordinary working man about it. But his sisters followed with epistles that were obviously never written by females. The male hand, the business hand, the hand that had passed through the even the legal hand, peeped through the letters. Again on Monday Charles Orton and Mrs. Pittendreigh came into the field, but only to twit the Orton sisters with the alleged falsehoods of their letters. In all this correspondence only one thing really was thy of notice. Mrs. Jury had said that could not stand by and see a fellow-creature sent into penal servitude for fourteen years without raising her voice, and Charles O'Connell says that is exactly what his sisters have done.

This is what makes their present statement entirely valueless. If they could not come forward and give their evidence upon oath, do they suppose we are going to believe it?
