CHESTER-LE-STREET BOARD OF

The fortnightly meeting was held at the Workhouse, on Thursday evening. Mr. Thomas Roberts presided, and there was a good attendance of members.

VISITING COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

The Visiting Committee reported that they found the Workhouse clean and well ventilated. With

The Master's journal showed that the number of inmates in the House at the present time was 127, the number at the corresponding period of last year being 118, showing an increase of nine. Number of vagrants relieved during the fortnight 150, corresponding period of last quarter, 153, showing a decrease of 23.

RESIGNATION OF THE INDUSTRIAL TRAINER.

The Clerk read a letter from Mr. M. E. Bolton, the industrial trainer, resigning his appointment. Mr. Bolton gave as a reason for this course the fact that his sister was about to be married, and as his mother

The Board, under the circumstances, accepted the resignation.

THE WAGES OF GIRLS TAKEN FROM THE HOUSE.

Several applications were before the Board for girls from the House to act in the capacity of domestic servants. In the first case applicant, who stated that her household consisted of eight in number, agreed to pay the terms arranged by the Board—2s per week the girl being 14 years of age. In regard to the second, applicant demurred to the payment of 2s, but offered 1s 6d per week.

There was a slight discussion ensued as to who was considered a fair sum to pay as wages to girls the age in question. Several Guardians thought 1s 6d per week was quite sufficient, others being of opinion that 2s should be paid. The applicant in the second class, it was stated, could obtain any number of girls at 1s. per week.

THE CHAIRMAN asked why she had not done so, but no satisfactory reply was given.

Ultimately, it was agreed to allow the second girl to go for the first six months at 1s 6d per week, the sum to be afterwards increased to 2s.

RURAL SANITARY AUTHORITY.

THE WITTON GILBERT AND PLAINSWORTH WATER SUPPLY.

A letter was read from the Local Government Board, dated 11th March, stating that the Board had recommended the Public Works Loan Commission to lend the Authority sums of £750 and £500 for the purpose of supply at Witton Gilbert and Plainsworth for the convenience of the inhabitants of the two villages. If the commissioners decided to grant the loan it

The CHAIRMAN and other members thought money had been obtained on exceedingly reasonable terms.

The Clerk said that after receiving that letter written to the Public Works Loan Commissioners, as he had received the usual list of queries, which would fill up and return.

A SINGULAR COMPLAINT FROM BIRTLEY.

Mr Thomas BARTNA, sanitary inspector, reports that complaint was made to him on the 3rd inst., a most offensive smell arising from the churchyard the village of Birtley. Upon examination he found that owing to the alterations now being made for enlarging the churchyard it had been necessary to remove 21 coffins to another portion of the churchyard, and from these the effluvia had arisen.

quantity of disinfectants being insufficient for purpose, he at once ordered 1 cwt. of chloroxide lime to be thrown into the graves and over the which had been removed therefrom. This was carried out by the contractor (Mr. Bennett), and a further examination showed that it had been successful up to the present in preventing any outbreak of infectious diseases from this source, the inspector reported appeared to him as very likely to be means of causing infection in the immediate neighbourhood.

THE AUTHORITY AND THEIR WORK: PROTECTIVE BY THE AUTHORITY.

The Medical Officer reported that the death-rate for the fortnight was 11·3 per 1,000. The report was as follows:—

On the 16th February my attention was called to the erection of two houses in the High Church

Chester's report, a follow-up visit with which I was made, and I determined that the property was in a deplorable condition, much as there is little or no room for outdoor accommodation, builder having told me they intended one was closest and one asphalt to serve the two new along the two old houses; or, in other words, one was closest for twenty persons. The Inspector told that the owners said it would be time enough to complete when the new units are finished. Also, the Inspector I examined this property again on 5th inst., and found the walls in the two old houses so damp as to render them unfit for habitation. The back wall in the two new houses is very damp, ought to have been pulled down. In addition, bedroom is built over the asphalt and watered. The houses are in the back of the property, and have no drainage, and no thorough ventilation. For old reasons of this derivation, Dr. Rente his report says: — "Nothing short of complete annihilation is of any practical value." — How can we tolerate the erection of property which, producer of fever, lowers the tone of the system, the inhabitants and gives rise to sickness? —

The Medical Officer of Health stated that the health of the district remained very good. There had been 27 deaths and 61 births for the fortnight. There had been two deaths from measles at Waltham. The epidemic had nearly died out, but he advised that the school should not be re-opened present.

The CHAIRMAN remarked that it was an exceedingly matter for doctors to talk about the annihilation of property," but they must remember that much of the property he complained of belonged to hard working people. There was no doubt admitted, that a great deal of it was worse than should be sent the Authority had been taking for getting it put into proper repair, and annually the only man to answer for it was the already over-payed surveyor. For the 12 years, he maintained the Authority had steadily making improvements. They cost £12,000 upon the sewerage for Chester-le-Street. Since that they had expended £1,500 upon Consett water, and they had now entered into an contract for £1,000 for the supply of water to Wolsingham. The Corporation had been ordered to let the water at Washington. At the present almost every little village in the Chester-le-Street Authority had a supply of pure water, and he thought this ought to be recognised. Anyone reading the report of Dr Renton would think they had nothing, whereas they were constantly doing something. He would like to see the Corporation, water, gas, and electric supply, to be put into a single authority, and to be placed under the control of the Corporation.

It was pointed out by several Guardians that if the tenants were to act upon the suggestion of the Rector, they might pull down half the property in Chester-le-Street, and the same remark would apply to almost every pit village in the neighbourhood. Perkins Villa, the houses were built back to back.

THE CHAIRMAN said that no doubt the property to do was to put property into a sanitary condition but at the same time he argued that it was absolutely necessary to have a certain number of houses let for 1s or 1s 6d per week beyond which no people could be asked to go. He thought that the Guardians must be convinced that what he had said was strictly correct.

The Bench, after consultation, held that the same Court that granted the order.

Court, on Monday (chairman), said a full report by the Hetherington Committee would be made to the W. Welford (County) while Mr C. M. Dix the respondent.—The respondent, living at Leadgate, said Mrs Ann Hetherington had been a member of the congregation for 20 years, and having committed adultery, and an order was made to contribute 10s per week to the church. He said that the case was in precisely the same position as when it came before Justice Hannan, and therefore their Worship were not bound to consider the ground that an appeal is already pending before the Queen's Bench Division, and that there should not be two appeals concurrently. Mr Welford (interrupting): That is not to be done. Mr Dix (resuming) observed that that was the position before the Queen's Bench Division, and he contended that this matter was still pending. He was aware that the Bench had revoked the recognisances entered into for the purpose of carrying on the special appeal; but he affirmed that their Worship were not authorized to do so.

"We have revoked the recognisances and with the appeal." Mr Dix submitted, however, the appeal was out of the hands of the Bench upon the recognisances were entered into, and, for a day or two, the power to set aside the recognisances was in the hands of the Bench. Only the Court of Queen's Bench had authority to revoke these recognisances. He held that the appeal was still pending.

The Magistrates expressed their intention of investigating the case.

Mr Dix said there was a third objection—

"The majority of their Worship to the Magistrate refused to grant it last instance, when an appeal was taken to the Bench at the Assizes of the Queen's Bench." The case was before the court and Divorce Court, but by way of a submission,

"I am sorry to hear that you have opportunity of appealing to a Superior Court, the points have raised."

"No, my Lord," she called, but entered the box, she enquired what he had as she was not going to give any evidence herself.

Mr Dix: Don't answer any questions unless they are asked you.

The Word: You are the wife of Hetherington, living at Leadgate?—Will you answer?

Mr Dix: Don't answer that question.

to entertain the application that the objection be overruled.

Mr. Welford: I don't want to ask her any questions.

William Kales, reporter, consented to be sworn. He said that he was present at the trial on October 4th, 1886, and recollects Hetherington being sworn. She admitted to have given birth to a child, which was then a girl, called Etta, and stated that Hetherington would not father the child. She refused, he said, to divulge the name of its parent.

Mr. Dix: Have you your shorthand notes?

Did you transcribe the notes yourself? — I did so.

Have you a transcript of your shorthand notes? — I have nine, except what was written in newspapers at the time.

Mr Dix objected to this evidence being so taken, and it was sustained by the production of the shorthand notes.

Mr Granger (Magistrate's Clerk): You too ingenious, Mr Dix. The shorthand notes are not necessary. They would only be for the purpose of saving time.

Mr. Welford said he was prepared to go to the box, and corroborate the testimony of the witnesses.

Mr. Welford proposed to call evidence to show the order should not be discharged.

The Bench enquired the ages of the children, the custody of Mrs. Hetherington?

Mr. Welford: The oldest is 12 years, & the other, I believe, about 10.

“THE HOP BITTERS” CUT FOR WIMLEDDON
It will be remembered that the Duke of Cambridge, announced at the recent meeting of the National Association that the well-known Hop Bitters Company had determined to celebrate the twentieth year of Her Majesty by presenting for competition at Wimleddon a gold cup, of the great value of a thousand guineas. It is stated that one of the causes which has led the Hop Bitters Company to make this gift is the fact that they are constantly receiving letters from throughout the country, from the great benefit they have received from the Hop Bitters. Every rifeased, indeed, knows

"The Court," as suggested by the learned counsel for the appellants, "is the Court"—whether it be the Court of Appeal, the Court of the Admiralty, the Assize Courts, the County Courts, the High Court, the Privy Council, and the various tribunals, and the various systems of appeal, as they may be affected, his share will be more or less equal for the time. On occasions he will naturally have recurring duties, and, as we have said, a great many shoddy men did the hop business the better to make the Court. The company intend also to invite donations from the public, and when it is complete, it is proposed that shall be exhibited in most of the principal towns of Great Britain—the proceeds of such exhibition given to the local charities. We should think that it is probable that the Council of the N. B. S. will be able to obtain the necessary prices for the exhibition (which of course will be at a very low price).
