peasants are decidedly hostile to the movement. The landed proprietors are mostly concerned in it as apprehensive of a crisis.

CEACOV, March 22.—Lampowicz and his female aide-de-camp, Miss Tschakowsky, were conveyed last night from Tarnopol to Czacow.

Since yesterday evening, nearly 700 insurgents and 100 horses have been brought to this town.

The insurgents are continually crossing the Austrian frontier.

Two thousand Russians, under Czempry, are posted with six guns near Optowicz. The insurgents are pursued into the forests of the North-west.

Mark Sykes, D.D., son of Elizabeth Sykes was the youngest son of the late Sir Mark Sykes, Bart., of Ryehall, and grandson of Daniel Sykes Esq., of Ryehall, and the office of Mayor of Hull. The deceased baronet was the oldest in the baronetage in England; as a fine old gentleman he was a link between the present and the past, and his long life and presence will generally be remembered and mourned by all classes and more particularly by the many thousands of his countrymen who are his fervent lovers of our national sporting in the kitchen and the field. His eldest son is at present in Egypt, and was, in anticipation of his father's death, telegraphed for a few days before he died. He was born in 1826, and is a Deputy-Secretary of the Admiralty. For four years previous to the venerable old man's death he was in an unexcusable state.

indication of medical officer which he held him liable for the charge, and committed him to the custody of a constable to await the summons of the magistrate. Dr. Courtney was alleged to have committed Miss Carey, but the charge, he said, was false. The case was adjourned.

Eight days ago, six men, with their faces blackened, entered the house of John Reynolds, farmer, of Ballinacree, County Wick, and beat Reynolds and his son with sticks. They then ran to a neighbour's house for assistance, where the ruffians attacked his wife, and ordered her money. She was in the act of going for assistance when the ruffians returned with assistance and they then escaped. — Freeman's Journal.

condition, which was corroborated and he insisted on an adjournment of the hymenal altar from the altar of the departed view of the honourable from the dated view of the honourable. The date expired in a few days and two persons are plunged into who expected damages from the alleged under unprincipled and romantic circumstances. The gentleman whose bliss was on the intended bride, the wedding ring and the actually purchased—by the transfer to lose a sum, people say, than £20,000 his marriage.

estimates arrived, all of whom early in the evening the square from duty.

Accounts received here state that these, and the district, are peaceable, and the their ordinary quick appearance.

At Stockport there still excitement among the low is so largely infested; but it is, there, there are any, may special combables have been precaution.
