POISONING DUMB ANIMALS—Great Indian dog, Victoria Greenfield, is felt by the authorities to be the cause of the destruction of well-bred and valuable dogs at this place. On Monday evening, a valuable blooded dog, a long greyhound, the property of Mr James P. Murray, was strayed into the wood in company with a young dog bred by Mr. H. Woods. At fifteen minutes Mr. Powell's dog returned home in convulsions, and died in great agony less than ten minutes. An examination by the poor animal had been poisoned by animal food saturated by a mineral poison. The other dog was searched for and it was detained by a keeper living close to the v. children who play in the vicinity. It is hoped that such horrible atrocities will be stopped at an end to.

JERMON DENK FETZ—This annual event is to be held on Whit Monday and Whit Tuesday, afternoon, is, we are glad to learn, becoming more popular every year. The romantic glebe girls, donning its most charming dress; the willow and ferns are more numerous and more luxuriant than ever; the varied foliage has rare and delicate tints, while the flowering shrubs are bursting into bloom. The water of the stream is now clear, and the noise of its rush over the cascades, combined with the music of the tribes, make most delightful melody. In to the natural beauties of the place, the series of performances, which cannot fail pleasure to all who have any interest in while those who like to see feats of strength

In some cases, however, it may be the result of a more serious condition, and may require medical treatment.
