Miscellaneous Intelligence

The most important and influential and State meeting held for years took place on Tuesday in St. James's Hall, London. The Archbishop of Canterbury presided. The Duke of North land was one of the speakers on the occasion.

Mr. C. H. Spurgeon will be presented £1,200 as a token of affection, and the millstones of two more houses for ministers' orphans, the erection of which he has devoted the gift. He laid on the Stockwell Orphanage grounds on Monday. Three weeks after the first stone more houses were laid—one subscribed for by school children, the others by the pastors

TRADER UNIFORM INTIMIDATION.—A two, at the Bolton Police Court, James J. was charged with endeavoring by threats to obtain the possession of the property of Messrs Thompson's cotton spinning appears that there is a disquiet in the trade locally, and it was an object with certain parties to obtain the property of the cotton spinner. The prosecutor stated that the prisoner had said that he should be killed and have his back broken if he did not give up the property. The prisoner was sentenced to a month's hard labor.

MURDER OF A STATION MASTER.—On morning, a porter, named Wells, aged 40, of the Great Northern Railway, was killed by a train and Dover Railway, murdered the station master named Walsby. Mr. Walsby was a report Wells for having fired off a pistol the station master was killed. The prisoner went into the office, and while the unfortunate station master was sitting at the desk, presented a pistol to him and fired. The prisoner was immediately taken to the custody of police.

During the annual public meeting of this League, Dr. Lester Hild, under the chairmanship of Mr. W. D. Foster, president, the chairmanship was given to its utmost capacity, and on the platform several prominent supporters of the temperance cause were present. The following is an abstract of the annual report, which commends the work of the League, and emphasizes that one of the indirect benefits that come from the League is the opportunity for a temperance sermon was the adoption of a resolution that the League should continue for securing the delivery of week-night sermons in the churches of the city. The number of churches in large provincial towns in addition to the churches in metropolitan centres had chapel services which were held on week-nights. Three conferences had been held with metropolitan centres, and many of the churches had agreed to afford facilities for the holding of addresses to their scholars during school hours. The League had secured a temperance class-book, and had secured a number of temperance-readingers and city missionaries in the metropolitan centres. The League had secured several important practical results of which was the securing of a number of temperance workers in their districts. Select meeting were held in the city, and the League had worked on for reforming the middle and lower classes of the city. The League had secured a number of temperance workers in the city, and a more popular character, had been held at the home of Mr. W. D. Foster, president, Ramsgate, Torquay, and Bournemouth. The League had secured several public meetings had been held at Tottenham and Ramsgate.

During the past winter, in visiting the rural districts in the immediate neighbourhood of London, the League's last year's work had been reviewed, and the members had been stirred up and revived. The League lecturers and honorary deputations had delivered upwards of 1,400 public addresses during the winter months. At the New Year's festival, which was held in London, 30,692 persons attended the annual feast at the Crystal Palace; and there were 10,000 visitors at the New Year's festival in Exeter Hall. The League's missionary to visit during the past year paid 4,688 visits to the rural districts, and addressed numerous meetings. The League's publications were sold, and enrolled 406 names in his pledge-book. He also sold a large number of temperance books, and secured 1,000 names for the League. The total income of the League for the year had been £3,302 11s. 0½d., and the expenditures, £3,501 10s. 0½d. The total amount received in subscriptions was £1,000 10s. 0½d., and the amount received in donations, £1,000 10s. 0½d. The adoption of the report having been agreed to, several addresses in furtherance of the objects of the meeting were delivered, and the proceedings were throughout very interesting. The meeting terminated with the usual complement of hymns, and a prayer.
