

(THE PLEASURE-SEEKER'S GUI

writing of individuals, in a style peculiarly her own. I desirous of knowing their own characterisation, or the prised at the clever way in which you described my ter." Jane Bray, 105, Lansdowne-place, Brighton.—

"Charles Haughton, naturalist."

Address to the Secretary, Institute of Anatomy, Birmo

Work, illustrated with numerous Engravings, on Spermatorrhoea, its Causes and Cure, giving full the distressing consequences arising from early and discriminate excesses, or too long residence in hot climates.

lozenge, devoid of taste or smell, and can be carried in the breast pocket.

SHOCKING MURDER IN PLAINS

named Dixon, who was one of the conspiracy, a bird, and while endeavouring to find it he stumbled upon the dead body of a man. He instantly gave an one that was not able to separate the vertebrae, shown by the fact that a sudden "chop" had the growth of fungus, upon which were scattered small pieces of bone and portions of other human integuments. It was also obserin blue cloth trousers of fine quality, light Wellington boots, and blue socks. A portion which the deceased wore was found upon his none of them were able to speak positively murdered man might be. There was, howe-

64, and tell how the money of the deceased had been used. This account of the deceased appeared to be the handiwork of the Grayson Hotel, so once identified the clothes of the deceased belonging to a former lodger of theirs, P.

(Code) must know what had become of the said he did not; that when the deceased had no money, but plenty of clothes.—Mrs.

The information upon which this order

the word, its letters

AMEE
LPOOL, Monday.—Th

