large wooden stool (redwood) and felled Harrison on the forehead with the weapon. The latter was stunned, and falling to one side, he fell into the arms of Thomas White. When White had recovered from the effects of the blow, it was discovered that the brim of his hat was broken, and the blow had inflicted an ugly cut in his brow, from which the blood flowed pretty freely, and his face was covered with the sanguinary fluid. Harrison then made another grab at his antagonist, but when succeeded in knocking down, and attempted to

Nicol, who was called in to quash the disturbance, was likewise assailed by Walker, who being a powerfully-built person, succeeded in overpowering the constable, and they struggled on the ground for five or ten minutes, during which Nicol was violently kicked and bitten by a number of civilians. Other policemen were called for, and Sergeants Murphy (Consett) and Norman (Maidgate) speedily arrived on the scene, when Walker for his own enjoyment. After returning for being left pretty much to himself, the duke, in his pleasure, gave his people great content with his palace, his theatres, and his gardens. Duke William had no other pleasures than to converse with the politicians of his own land, to agitate and write as they pleased. Bismarck's disgust and indignation, he resented their insult, and wanted him to marry. After waiting upon him begging him to marry, he was disappointed in the nuptial noose, he placarded the town with theatrical notices, and played the play called, "I Stay Single." He asked him to marry, and he refused.

He would not visit England nor be not acknowledged as of superior rank to the members of the English Royal Family. He gave in to Berlin with the understanding which would have made him a prisoner. Still he took the right line of conduct, unity, and maintained in his country the civil liberty. Such praise cannot be given to the German princes.

NEW ZEALAND.
FOR SALE AT LEAST IN THE SOUTHERN ISLAND.
The Government of New Zealand has decided to offer for sale at least in the southern island, the island of Stewart, a large tract of land, the area of which is about 1,000 square miles. The land is situated in the southern part of the island, and is bounded by the sea on three sides. The land is fertile and well watered, and is suitable for agriculture. The Government is offering the land for sale at a low price, and is hoping to attract settlers to the island. SODDEN DEATH OF THE MARQUESS
OF LONDONDERRY.

It is with feelings of deep sorrow that we have to announce the sudden death of the Marquess of Londonderry. His Lordship, with Lady Londonderry and some members of the family, was staying at Plas Machynlleth, North Wales, their intention being to celebrate the coming of age of Lady Ailene Vane-Tempest to-day (Friday). The Marquess was understand, presided on Wednesday at the divisional petty sessions in Montgomeryshire, being apparently in fairly good health. In the evening he was seized with an acute attack of rheumatic gout and died—passing peacefully away, to use the expression of the telegram which was wired to various towns in the North of England yesterday morning. The sad intelligence at once became the universal theme of conversation throughout the county of Durham, where the

The full names and titles of the deceased nobleman were as follows:—George Henry Robert Charles William Vane-Tempest, C.H., Earl of Londonderry, Viscount Castlereagh, and Baron Stewart of Ballylawn, in the peerage of Ireland; Earl Vane, Viscount of Seaham and Wynyard, county of Durham, and Baron Stewart, of Stewart's Court, in the peerage of the United Kingdom; Knight Grand Cross of the Russian Order of St. Alexander Newby; Colonel of the North Durham Militia, Lieut-Col. Commandant of Seaham Artillery Volunteer Brigade, and Lord-Lieutenant of the county of Durham. He was born on the 25th April, 1821, and married August, 1845, Mary Cornelia, only daughter and heiress of the late Sir John Edwards, Bart., of Garth, county Montgomery, and has been issued Charles Stewart, Viscount Castlereagh, Major-General Durham Volunteers, born July 17th, 1852; married 2nd October, 1875, Lady Theresa, Countess of...

October, 1816, Lady Anne, daughter of the Earl of Shrewsbury; Henry John, 2nd Life Guards, born July, 1854; Herbert Lionel-Henry, born July, 1862; Frances Cornelia-Harriet-Emily, died March 2nd, 1872; Avarina-Mary, died June 26th, 1873; and Alexandrina-Louisa Maud. His Lordship succeeded by special limitation as second Earl Vane at the decease of his father, Charles, third Marquis of Londonderry and the first Earl Vane, on the 6th March, 1854, and he succeeded his half-brother, as fifth Marquis of Londonderry, on the 25th November, 1872, the fourth Marquis Frederick William Robert born July, 1805, having died then without issue. The Marquis assumed the additional name of Tempest by Royal licence in 1851. He proceeded on a special mission in July, 1867, to St. Petersburg, to invest the Emperor of Russia with the Order of the Garter, and had conferred upon him by his Imperial Majesty the Grand Cross of the Russian Order of St. Alexander Newski. The Marquis of Loudoun became the possessor of three estates both in England and Ireland, and was a liberal donor to objects which secured his sympathy. He will be succeeded in the title and estates by his eldest son, Lord Castlereagh, who is at present member for Down County, in the representation of which a vacancy will consequently be occasioned. The deceased Marquis entertained the Duke of Albany on the occasion of his visit to this district. He was prominently identified with Conservative politics in the North of England.

HINTS FOR THE HOME.

DON'T BOX YOUR CHILD'S MIND.—Numerous instances are recorded where serious results, often permanent injury, have followed such punishment. Nature has provided every child with a place where corporeal chastisement may be safely administered, and that place is not located on the head.

FALSE IDEAL.—False ideals of happiness hunt the ways of men, and lead them on to danger and destruction through the siren song of "autism." One makes his wealth. He has enough now for all the purposes of refined living; but he wants that extra, that margin, by which enough may be made more and into excess, and refinement may be made into insane frantic luxury and ignorant calculation. "When I shall have no more, I will be content," he says to himself. But he is never content. He is a hundred thousand poorer, he wants ten millions more.

HAPPINESS.—When you rise in the morning, form a resolution to make the day a happy one to a fellow creature. It is easily done; sift of earnest to the man who needs it, a kind word to the sorrowful, an encouraging expression to the striving, trivial in themselves, as light as air, will do at least for the twenty-four hours.

And if you are young, depend upon it, it will tell when you are old; and if you are old, rest assured it will send you gently and happily down the stream of time to eternity. By the most simple arithmetical sum, look at the result. If you send one person away happily through this day, that is 200 in the course of the year. And, suppose you live forty years only after you have commenced that course of medicine, you have made 16,000 persons happy, at all events, in a time.—Sydney Smith.

and want another!" "Yes, please, Mary," said he; "I'm not a bit uncomfortable yet."

It takes 40-hour lung power to awaken the sleeping somebody in time to escape a tardy mark; but on holidays he will group around the house in the early twilight all out of sorts because breakfast is not ready.

A little boy was asked by his mother to go to the store and get some eggs. He went, and on his return he dropped them. His mother asked him if he had broken any of them. He replied: "No; but the whole house full of eggs."
