ROYAL (POLAND STREET) TEMPERANCE
HAND-BELL RINGERS,
TOWN HALL IN THE SHOOTING GALLERY

ON TUESDAY, December 16th, 1873,
with their Splendid Peal of EIGHTY-TWO BELLS,
in their Musical, Recitative and Campanology;

Mr. Atkinson, gamekeeper, Hamsterley Hall, deposed that on Sunday morning, the 26th ult., he was in the Hagg Farm, when he observed the defendant set a hang. Witness went up to him and on searching his pockets found three hange, one of which was wet and had only been taken up by the defendant. — Defendant: — Did you see me set a hang? — Mr. Plaburn: I saw you set one, which I now produce. — Defendant: I have leave to call rabbits on Mr. Watson's land. — Mr. Smith: I

... what you have to say in defence after.—Mr Fishburn: I may state that in 1871, I caught the defendant poaching. He begged hard, however, to be forgiven, and Mr Grace, of Scotswood, who holds the shooting, eventually agreed to let him off on receiving a promise from defendant that he would not repeat the offence.—

defendant, in essence, said he had leave to kill rabbits on Mr Watson's land, which adjoins the Hamsterley estate. When Mr Hall had the farm, defendant had permission to go over it when he liked.—Mr Smith said because defendant had leave from Mr Watson to kill rabbits, that was no reason why he should set snares on Mr Watson's land.—Mr Eliott.

When the defendant set the snare was a couple of fields from Watson's property. Defendant was ordered to pay fine of 40s and costs, Mr Smith remarking that defendant might be better employed than setting snares on a Sunday morning.
