

[PRICE ONE PENNY.]

neys and bladder. In all cases of general debility, low spirits, melancholy, malar in the head, fear, blushing, dislike to exercise, drowsiness, headache, dimness of sight, loss of memory, giddiness, palpitation of the heart, nervous system, indigestion, flat, epilepsy, and the long train of fearful symptoms commonly known as nervous complaints, they are a positive specific, eradicating every trace of disease, purifying the blood, and invigorating the whole system, and with marvellous celerity Inspector Walter Root, of the 118 Westgate Division, was on the scene of the conflagration, accompanied by Sub-Inspector Nell, a detachment of police, and the hose and reel of E Division. To the great good fortune of the fire, a stream of water from that part of the building where the fire had shown itself was but the work of a few minutes, every man throwing all his energies into the effort to settle the destructive

The enormous sale of these Tinctures throughout the world, and the daily receipt of testimonials thousands of which may be inspected by any one, warrant the proprietor in asserting that they are the most efficacious medicine ever issued. Price 1s 3d, 2s 6d, and 4s 6d, per box. (To Protect the public from imitations, Mr. Maycock's Commissioner, RALPH THOMSON, writes on the wrapper of every bottle of the Tincture, "The fire broke out at that end of Mr. Robson's premises nearest to the Tyne Concert Hall, and immediately behind Mr. Laidler's Refreshment Rooms." The chief hope of safety for the Tyne Concert Hall lay in the fact that the Tincture was stored in the safe room at the end of the premises nearest to the fire.)

LONDON, to be engraved in white letters on the Government Stamp, affixed to each package, to imitate which is held by Mr Ismay and J. D. Brown, Chemists, Newcastle, Mr Ismay, Chemist, Consett, and all other Chemists in the world; or will be sent direct, packed privately in a letter, on receipts of 14, or 32 postage stamps, by Dr. Thomson, 21, Harrington-square, Hymington Road, London. "Four doses of your Pills cured my pains in the back which had annoyed me for many years.—H. M. "I tried them for pains in the back; they cured me in a few hours.—G. R. "I had been troubled for years with an eruption on my face. Your Pills have quite cured me.—E. J. S. "I have never had an attack of gout or rheumatism since I used your Pills.—W. and reel of the C Division, accompanied by Inspector Griers, the hose and reel of the D Division, under the command of Inspector Thomas Scott, and the hose and reel of the North British Fire Office, commanded by Mr Soutley, and a body of firemen. The hose of the B Division slaved on the front of the burning premises.

DR. THOMSON'S TONIC ELIXIR. Restores health, strength and power, to the most shattered constitution, cures with the utmost certainty relaxation, specimen marasmus, exhaustion, depletion of spirits, giddiness, nervousness, epilepsy, paralysis, and all the distressing consequences arising from debility. For all diseases of the urinary organs it will be found a speedy specific, requiring no alteration in diet, purifying the blood, removing irritations, scurvy, apoplexy, blotches, skin eruptions, leucoderma, etc. They staidly have been used for the elevation of water than the divisional house, the streams from which at one period would scarcely carry as high as the roof of the low buildings around the seat of the fire. A very short time more had elapsed before the streets around the fire were crowded by people, the blinding glare of the tion of the bladder, &c., who too frequently harass the sufferer over the best years of life. Monte Elixir has restored bodily strength and vigour to thousands of debilitated individuals who now enjoy perfect health and the functions of manhood; and whatever the cause of the disqualification for marriage, they succeed in forming a family potent reward. Many poor sufferers, who from fear of discovery, had stifled their afflictions for a long and anxious year, to the family doctor, have cured themselves privately at 12s or no expense, with this medicine. Price 2s 6d, 4s 6d, 11s, and 32s per Bottle. C. Protect the Public from spurious imitations of this medicine. Her Majesty's Commissioners have ordered the words RALPH THOMSON, LONDON, to be engraved in white letters on the Government Stamp affixed to each bold, to imitate which is felony and transportation).

Hold by Mr Insrie, Chemist, Consett, and all other Chemists in the world, or will be sent direct from the establishment on receipt of a Post-Office Order for 11s. or 33s payable to Mr. Ralph Thomson, 21, Harrington-square,
Hampstead Road, London

QUACKERY DEFEATED. A Physician, upwards of 55 years Resident House Surgeon in a London Hospital, having been successful in curing thousands of sufferers from nervous and general debility, loss of memory, indigestion, diarrhoea, chronic consumption, rheumatism, &c., &c., has issued a small tract, which accented volumes of flimsy vapour. Here also, however, a scene of destruction had been witnessed in some of the shops caused by another agent than fire, and scarcely less destructive. Some of the property in the shops was saved by the owners and deposited in a place of safety; but this constituted only a small portion of the contents. A number of "roughs" — for no other term can be applied to their conduct — effected an entrance into Mr. M-Kenna's shop and into Mr. Sturgeon's, and under wild excitement, which may have been caused by the scene, but which looked extremely like the usual conduct of the non-descript element common to the streets of London.

Dr. of RUSSELL, 28 Clarence Road, Kentish Town, London. "Your book is worth anything to those who need a doctor."
- J. Short. "I adopted your advice, and my giddiness is all gone.—I, Merry. "I value your book, and wish you to send me three copies to give away.—Rev. J. Leigh.

VITAL PILLS. All sufferers from General Nervous Debility, and other symptoms of nervousness, morbid feelings, melancholy or low spirits, loss of memory, listlessness, harassing dreams, imagination, brain, mental irritability, failure of the powers of body and mind, weakness of the system, and all the blood ailments.

the nerves, neural masses, and the spinal cord. The indigestion, gout, rheumatism, pains in the back, and other symptoms of chronic disease will hail with joy the discovery of DR. RUSSELL'S VITAL PILLS, a medicine that cures all pain and disease of whatever nature, restores cheerfulness of spirits and vigor of mind and strengthens all the powers of health and lower life depend. Price 25 cents.

trial organic compounds at 50 p.p.m. per pound post free on receipt of 14s 6d to 114s 6d per cwt. in 100 lb. parcels. For further particulars apply to Messrs. J. & S. 23, Penny Lane, London, W.C.2, or to Dr. Russell, 28, Clarence-road, Kenilworth, London, W.14. Sold by Mr. Ismay and H. Downie & Co., Chemists, Newcastle; Mr. Innie, Chemist, Consett, and all other Chemists in the world. With every box is enclosed a Pamphlet of 64 pages, a perfect hand-book of health. Obedience to the law is the only way to safety. Destruction with 700 m.p.h. or 1,000 in 100 yds. of stream of water from the united hoses prevented the fire from doing more than comparatively little damage to that highly inflammable building. Considering the extent of the fire, the damage was not so great as it might otherwise have been had the buildings destroyed.

GREAT FIRE IN NEWCASTLE.
NARROW ESCAPE OF THE TYNE CONCERT

Mr. Cullen has issued a Pastoral to the Roman Catholic the builder of the New Tyn Hall, and as the lessee of the extensive quarries at Keston and Wide-open. The premises in question are situated in Neville-street, and were at one time occupied by Mr Nixon, builder. A description of the site of these and the adjoining buildings is so very interesting at this juncture. When the Spain, is now menacing more northern countries. It is to be hoped that the disease may be checked by the frost and snow of the approaching winter, and by the sanitary measures adopted by the Governments of Europe. These contribute to such a result every day sought to assist in the work of the Committee, and to the work of the the south east. The piece of ground remains vacant until some time after the erection of the station, the company reserving it for additional sidings or any other purpose which might be found necessary. Afterwards the ground was often seen studded by travelling circuses or shows, this being more especially the case on the occasion of carrying on the great annual fair.

But while human beings are to be employed we are never to forget that the laws of life and death are in the hands of Providence, and therefore Dr. Cullen says it is the special duty of the faithful to turn to the Almighty Ruler of the universe, and to beg of Him to

of the annual "hopping." A wooden circus was next erected upon a portion of the site, and after the equestrian company quitted the town, was used occasionally for holding public meetings, concerts, and social gatherings. Gradually a number of small wooden erections rose up about the site. These were eventually occupied by around the circus, where the photographer, who found the situation a most eligible one for securing patrons. Says he for the sale of fruit and refreshments gradually sprang up, and a portion of the Neville-street frontage was also occupied by the studios of Mr Pattinson and the late Mr Young, sculptors.

The circus ultimately came into the hands of Sir George Stanley, and was by him fitted up as a place of amusement, under the now well-known name of the Tyne Concert Hall. In course of time the original sheds were pulled down and replaced with more substantial erections of brick and wood. These all faced into Neville Street.

Commencing at the east end of the row, near the Central Station, is the photographic establishment of Mr GUNOUR; next is the shop of Mrs Johnson, who unites the trades of tobacconist and confectioner; adjoining it is Scott's portrait rooms, and immediately beyond them is the shop of Mr. T. GUNOUR.

pedimented entrance by the type corner immediately above is Sullivan's portrait room, next to which is Laidler's refreshment rooms. Above Laidler's place was a small wooden building, which seems to have served as a sort of office, and between this and Laidler's a door seems to lead to a tall erection behind, which extended from the Tyne & Wear Hall to North street, and next to the latter building was the most extensive erection on the ground. This building was constructed of wood, and having stood for some years as dry as tinder, a condition which caused the fire which broke out earlier, soon resulted in a race with frightful and destructive

On the west end of the wooden office referred to was the studio of Mr. R. Pattinson, sculptor, which stood a little back from the street, the vacant space in front being occupied as a show ground for some beautifully sculptured tombs and other carved objects of Mr. Pattinson's. The artist was a man of great energy and heavily on the poem." With reference to the o plaque, he is of opinion that it is a manifestation of God's anger, and intended as a punishment, because some people are fond of racing and speed large steam horses, and because "laws are enacted to prevent Pattinson's tasteful art. To the east of this was a new wooden erection, a portion of which was in the occupation of Mr McKenna, photographer, the western corner being used by Mr J. O. Sturgeon for the sale of confectionery. Between the front row of shops and the building occupied by Mr Deane was a small open space in which some lathe was placed. The whole of the buildings which have been overthrown were of the most inflammable description, and they were almost wholly constructed of deals; and so many of them had stood some time, a more inflammable collection of material could

Rain had fallen heavily during the evening, and the wind blew strongly from the east. The performances at the Tyne Concert Hall generally conclude about half-past ten; and on Wednesday evening they terminated about that hour, and the audience took their way to their SELF-ESTIMATED VALUE OF LIFE.—Three persons were rescued during the bathing season from possible danger, while bathing from the gentlemen's machine at the With, Eastbourne, who respectively tendered to rescuers the sums of 5s, 2s 6d, and 8d.—Surfing.—On Saturday afternoon, an attempt at surfing was made by a party of five persons, who were seen to be in the water for some time, but were not seen to be in any danger.

giving of the wind and the gradual progress within the destructive element, which a few minutes afterwards made so grand and sublime a spectacle. In a moment, with startling rapidity, towering tongues of flame burst upon the right of the unassuming passers by. The the kid, 'spectators of the appalling sight at once gave the alarm,' in the neighbourhood, by whom she was promptly re-

(Per the Asia.)
amer Asia arrived on Monday with

[illegible]

1990

FOUNDING OF A VESSEL AND LOSS OF ALL HANDS.

A close-up photograph of the bottom edge of a book page, showing the binding structure and the edge of the paper. The binding appears to be made of a dark material, possibly leather or cloth, with visible stitching or staples. The paper edge is slightly irregular and shows some texture.

01
 02
 03
 04
 05
 06
 07
 08
 09
 10
 11
 12
 13
 14
 15
 16
 17
 18
 19
 20
 21
 22
 23
 24
 25
 26
 27
 28
 29
 30
 31
 32
 33
 34
 35
 36
 37
 38
 39
 40
 41
 42
 43
 44
 45
 46
 47
 48
 49
 50
 51
 52
 53
 54
 55
 56
 57
 58
 59
 60
 61
 62
 63
 64
 65
 66
 67
 68
 69
 70
 71
 72
 73
 74
 75
 76
 77
 78
 79
 80
 81
 82
 83
 84
 85
 86
 87
 88
 89
 90
 91
 92
 93
 94
 95
 96
 97
 98
 99
 00

Miscellaneous Notes

[illegible][illegible][illegible][illegible]

He had been perched against David Rowe and Heine masters, of having looked up and ill-treated David the older defendant, because he had eloped with her. The jury, however, found that the defendant had got married before his relations could press a claim for money, as they wished to do. The proceedings initiated by the newly-made wife, who alleged that her husband was kept from her by force, were dismissed. The first of the two trials, however, was a complete success, repeated her testimony, which the jury found to be in favor of the charge. The bridegroom, too, was then put into the box. The court was very much interested in the case, and the defendant was tried with a jury. He appeared anything but a dashing lover—more like a meek, schoolboy. That after he was taken home by his brother he was told that he had been married, and that he was to sail on the next day, he refused, he noticed was so short. His father then booted him he threw himself on the floor, and drawing a watch from his pocket, he looked at it. He remained in his brother's room, went to bed, and remained in until Sunday afternoon. Being cross-examined, he was sixteen years old on the last of December last, and at Christmas to complete his twenty-first year. He was a native of the county of York, and was a native of the county of York.

her and their six wives. He went to York's house with her and her brother, who carried their two carpets, to Birmingham. Thence they went to the office of the registrar at Kenilworth, to be solemnly married. The registrar, a clergyman to marry them, but vainly. They married at the office of the registrar at Kenilworth his brother Henry found him. He willingly retired to his room, and the bride and groom were and he elected to go abroad. To this intent he Birmingham, and made an arrangement with a gentleman there to go out to South America. The vessel, his father-in-law's, was to pay £2,000 for the passage of the bride and groom. The vessel came for him, saying the vessel would start. He became sulky and refused to go; and after and brother had sent his car he went up to his room and wrote a letter to his father-in-law. He did so, and retained a willing spirit to go. Then he willingly went on a tour in Wales, nothing of these proceedings until his return on the 10th of the month. He was in the car on his last time he pubed a letter and said he was his last time. The Bench dismissed the case for the defence. The crowd hissed the bride and groom, and the bride and groom were so sympathised with the bride, as they separated court.

The act of violence to a boy on board ship was considered a disgrace to the crew and the ship. The deposition of the boy, who is lying in the Zrendas hospital with his back broken, and without the slightest hope of recovery, is a tragedy. I was taken to the following cell: "I am seventeen years old, and was brought up on board the Marine Society's ship Hargate. From 1892 to 1894 I was on board the ship Albatross of the Wharf, called Albatross, belonging to Newcastle. I had only been on board three days, and on the night of the third day, when the ship was in the harbor, the crew of the men was passing a rope along the deck, and he said something to me, speaking in a south-country language that I did not understand. I asked him to repeat what he said, and because I did not do what I suppose he wanted me to do, he struck me on the back of the neck with his fist, and I fell down. He drew me down by the collar, and then he took me to the hold, and the rope the man was handling ran between me and the hold. I remember that I was very much frightened, and I was crying because I had not been on the ship more than once. It was dark, and I could not see which of daily comes from observation, and awaiting the possibility of the arrival of the thief, and to his great joy a gentleman appeared, shortly after the doors were open, and accompanied by two or three men, he came to the entrance of the box. As soon as they were seated, the detective policeman tapped, beckoned someone quietly out, and then there was a slight commotion in the rear of the box, where the ladies were not to leave. Then making the gentlemen by the arm, he said, "This way, my gentleman—you are my prisoner." "What?" "What?" the surprised gentleman asked. The detective pointed to the door at the rear of the box ticket. "That is what you will learn—this way," and he was led down a side staircase to a dismal room, where, after a short stay, he was taken to the rear of the box, and, to whom the order was given to search. "Ah, as I thought," said the officer, "here is the very person whom we have been waiting for. He is a very important man, and he has returned here rather than surprised and indignant, and after a good deal of explanation, it turned out, and was satisfactorily proved, that this was the identical gentleman who had been seen in the rear of the box. The thief had in the after part of the day politely returned is proved in the following letters, taken at random out of a volume of correspondence which I have just finished on November 1—“I feel it a duty to testify to all the good qualities adapted to belong to Du Barry's Revivante Arabica Food, and also to its inherent power of reproducing vital energy in the human system, and of restoring the body to health in atrophy and death, and where no other food would digest. One of my children, now a healthy infant of 18 months, has been unable to digest any other food than approaching strength, in consequence of our having been unable to find milk and the other foods generally recommended that which would prove nutritive. The child is now perfectly healthy, and has gained 15 pounds in weight since we began upon Du Barry's Revivante Arabica Food about several months. S. Chimney, of the firm Chimney, Johnson, & Co., New York, writes: “I have used your food, and find it invariably to restore perfect digestibility, and to give strength, health, energy, pure blood, refreshing stop, functional regularity, and energy in the most disordered and feeble cases. I have used it in the case of my wife, and of my son. No. 26, 216 of the Marchioness de Brehan, Naples, 17th April, 1862.”—“In consequence of a liver complaint, I was and nerves that are essential for survival. The body's response to stress is a complex process involving the hypothalamus, pituitary gland, and adrenal glands. The hypothalamus releases corticotropin-releasing hormone (CRH), which stimulates the pituitary gland to release adrenocorticotropic hormone (ACTH). ACTH then stimulates the adrenal glands to release cortisol. Cortisol is a steroid hormone that has many effects on the body, including increasing blood sugar levels, suppressing the immune system, and increasing the body's resistance to stress. While cortisol is essential for survival, chronic exposure to high levels of cortisol can have negative effects on the body, such as weight gain, high blood pressure, and depression. Therefore, it is important to manage stress and maintain a healthy lifestyle to keep cortisol levels in check.

