LEARNERS AT ARMYFIELD FRASE.—On Wednesday

LUNCHEON AT ARMYVILLE PARK.—On Wednesday morning, the Rev. John Gutteridge, of Manchester, delivered a lecture in the Wesleyan Chapel, at its new place. The subject of the rev. gentleman was John Bunyan. There was a large attendance, and the lecturer was repeatedly applauded. In the afternoon, a public tea was held, and was largely partaken of.

with Esq. Thomas Hobson appealed against a order of the Lancaster magistrate requiring him to support the illegitimate child of Mary Ann Howe, which he had been adjudged the putative father. Mr. Greenhow appeared for the appellant, and Mr. Green for the respondent. Evidence on both sides

GREAT DEPRESSION IN THE COAL TRADE.— Great depression is everywhere apparent in the coal trade, which seems each month to increase, and

...a chance for the better...
...respect of miners and others engaged about collieries...
...anything but encouraging. In several collieries...
...the miners are just working half time, while...
...here the owners are contemplating lying in the...

...these things are assuming an unpleasant and, unless trade revives to its wonted activity in this district, the position of many poor families will, during the fast approaching winter, be really distressing. In the Brandon coal field, that hitherto prosperous district which for several years has been increasing in commercial importance and giving employment of thousands of miners, has at length suffered a great relapse, and during the past few months the owners have gradually been reducing their staff of workmen. On Monday last, about thirty workmen engaged at the Boyne Colliery, near Durham, received an intimation that their services would not be required at the end of the fortnight.

and similar notices at other collieries in the district may be expected to follow. The tide of prosperity which has visited this country during the past two or four years is evidently receding, and the speculation of wages, not only in mining quarters, but in other branches of industry, is likely to take place.

BEAMISH, PONTOP, AND CONSETT AGRICULTURISTS.—The annual turnip crop competition of this society was held on the 20th and 21st inst. The judges being Messrs Robert Darling, Plasnewydd, Mr. J. A. Beauchamp, Hall, and John Henry.

competition in all the classes was greatly in excess of previous years, and from the very excellent crops exhibited it required considerable discrimination on the part of the judges to arrive at a correct decision. In the first class for 3 acres of Swedish turnips.

which there were 21 entries, the first prize was awarded to Mr. William Howdon, Pockerley, near Beamish, and the second prize to Mr. John Tweddell, Mill, Lamealey. Mr. Francis Richardson of Birtley was highly commended; and Mrs. Clark, of St. Caesary, was commended. In the second class for acres of any sort of turnips except Swedes, there were 15 entries; the first prize was awarded to George Little, Picketree; and the second prize to Peter McLaren, Hedley West House; Mr. Thomas Ball, of Hedley Hall, was highly commended. The third class of 2 acres of Swedes and 3 acres of other sorts exhibited by a tenant farmer, the were 12 entries: the first prize (a piece of plate) awarded to Mr. Peter McLaren, of Hadley Wood House; and the second prize to Mr. Wm. Howard Poockley. In the evening of the 21st inst., members dined together at the Peacock Inn, Tanfield, where a sumptuous repast was provided.

the worthy host, Mr. Thomas Forster. The cloth was occupied by Mr. Nathaniel Clark, of Bean Park; and the vice-chairs by Mr. Thomas Bell Hedley Hall, and Mr. John Kirkup, of Pease House. After the removal of the cloth, the usual and patriotic toasts were given, and duly honoured, and a most pleasant evening was spent.

SAD CONDITION OF FATHER O'KEEFE'S AFFAIRS in Callan, and the condition to which Rev. Mr. O'Keefe has been reduced since the 29th June, when the parish church was taken possession of by a mob in the interest of the Bishop, press very deplorable state of things. Mr. O'Keefe has been unable to celebrate Divine service, and has kept a prisoner in his house. Even of that he has partial possession, and it is divided between O'Keefe, some police who protect him, and five or six very disreputable individuals of the labouring class, who have been there for four months.

classes. For the past three or four months it hardly been six times out of doors, and on occasion had to give notice to the police to water roads. Up to June the people continued to attend his ministrations, but there was a marked fall-off of the shopkeepers and more respectable class. This and their placid attitude during the recent pages are attributed to their irritation at having to pay for the extra police drafted into the town. The wreckage of his house is more complete than supposed at first reports, and much of Mr. O'Keefe's valuable library has been destroyed, the books having been rudely thrown through the windows. He lives in a couple of wretched outhouses. The state of the town is deplorable. Distrust and suspicion prevail universally, and no one would express an opinion without having first learned that of an interlocutor. Father O'Keefe addressed a message to the prelates assembled in the late synod, protesting against the case, but no answer was given.

in the town, who are so harassed with the ince-watching of Father O'Keefe and the patrol dur-the town and outlying districts, that they can obtain sleep; many of them have not removed clothes for several days.

DISPUTED WARRANTY OF A HORSE.—A Newcastle County Court, on Wednesday, (T. Bradshaw, Esq., judge), an action was brought to recover compensation for the sale of a horse alleged to be unsound. Mr. Blackwell appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. Stevenson for the defendant.

It appeared that the plaintiff, Mr. Shanks, is a farmer at Anick Grange, near Hexham, and defendant Davidson, a farmer at Belsay Red House. On the 1st of August the Newcastle horse fair was held and the defendant there offered a brown horse for sale. Plaintiff, in presence of several persons, purchased the animal for £50, on receiving a warranty that it was all right, sound, and a good worker. There was a mark on the horse's foot, as the defendant said this was merely "a tread" meaning that it had been trod upon by another animal. With the exception of this defect, it was perfect.

sound. On the 14th of the same month, a tiff observed something wrong with the horse on being examined, by a veterinary surgeon found to be suffering from "ring bone" of off fore foot, which had been fired. "Ring"
it was explained, was a small enlargement bone at the top of the hoof. Notice was sent defendant of the defect, and asking him to return purchase money and the necessary expenses of the animal, such as keep, &c. Not receiving a satisfactory reply, the animal was sold by auction at a deal less than the original purchase.—For the defense, it was contended that there was a qu warranty given, that the defendant did not know that the animal was suffering from "ring bone," also that previous to the sale being effected the fact was pointed out. The defendant bought the animal at a public auction sale, in April, 1906, and he did not believe it was suffering from "ring bone" at the time he bought it.

plaintiff as the purchaser, but a person named who made the bargain with him. The evidence, his honour considered, was in favour plaintiff, and returned a verdict for $23 7s. 6d.

CASE UNDER THE EMPLOYERS AND WORKMEN'S ACT, 1874.—A case under this Act, which only came into operation on the 1st of August last, was heard at the Lancaster Petty Sessions, on Thursday, by Mr. M. Kearney (chairman), J. Clavering, J. F. Greenwell, Esq. The plaintiff was Samuel Swadlow, tailor and draper, Dighton, who summoned Joseph Temperley, a bound apprentice, for non-fulfilment of contract, £2 compensation being claimed. The plaintiff was represented by Mr. John Patrick, of Durham; and Mr. Taylor, of Berham, appeared for the defendant. Mr. Patrick briefly stated the facts was inclined to return to plaintiff's employment adding that he had taken legal advice in the matter and was prepared to abide by the consequences. Plaintiff also requested Mr. Swallow to be so kind as to forward his clothes to Bellingham." On receipt of this letter, plaintiff wrote to the defendant expressing his surprise, and hoping that defendant would return without unpleasant means having to be resorted to. He did not return defendant's clothes. Plaintiff added that he claimed 12 a week compensation for the time defendant detained him. Defendant was working at Bellingham as a journeyman, and earned $12 a week. Plaintiff's journeyman by Mr.

THE STRIKE AT DIPTON.

To the Editor of the Consett Guardian.

SIR,—Allow me, through your valuable paper, to say a few words about the Dip-ton strike. In the first place I think the masters are making a mistake. A few facts respecting the origin of the dip-ton may not be uninteresting to your readers. The strike commenced about the masters wanting the boys to work twelve hours per day. This the lads refused to do, and the consequence was that the boys and their parents received

"as to whether the latter really intended to do so," said the speaker, "and as to settling down, they should commence work the following morning each man going to his own cavi." When the men returned to the office to hear the cavelling sheet read they were told it could not be seen until seven o'clock. On going back at the latter hour they were informed that the sheets were three men blacklegs, at least one had come with them, and the others had been taken out of their places and put into three of the best places in the pit. The speaker also said that these men could not be sent to their other places. Now, sir, I could say a good deal more if space would permit, but I will just leave the public to judge who is to blame—the masters or men.

THE SUNDAY TRAIN QUESTION ONCE MORE

To the Editor of the Omsett Guardian.

SIR,—It is too bad that Mr. Harris should be made the scape-goat to bear the sin of all the advocates of Sunday Train. While his opponents are beating it most unmercifully, numbers of eating, religiousists quietly awaiting themselves of a train on the Sabbath to visit their friends and relatives. As a Harris has agitated openly and avowedly to secure object, and has succeeded. "Evil communications are rep good manners" is a truism which we have all learned by heart. Casting hangings who will and roar in many places, as they do at the present time, and pages accompanied by sinister dogs, will probably be seen here and by taking air on a fine Sabbath morning, per train, although they are tugging and tethering Mr. Harris at present. Wouldn't it be jolly to hear one of these meek little exhorting station master's porter, go up to some of these worth to come," while the railway official retort by suggesting it be used to beat off the railway officials' staff by suggestion.

From J. C. M.,—Ave., Feb. 2nd, 1876.
Some time ago I purchased a packet of PILSODAGINE, and I can only say that I cultivated it most carefully, and with great success. Previous to this I had carefully tried both—Anker-Pain-Expeller and Chamberlain's Hair Preparation [names are suppressed], but to my surprise PILSODAGINE is really a most efficient and safe preparation for the hair. You may give my regards to any inquirer for reference, if necessary.

From Mr. John Bell, Pleasanton road, Pleasanton, Cal.,

ALBERT ROAD.

The Mayor, on stepping in front of the platform, was loudly cheered. He said he did not know in all his long career of having less at his case. His tender feelings for the production of the man in which he was that night. (Laughter.) That should be the case. Cook, who was on the platform, invited him to have a Turkish bath with him. He did not go and he had saved that money. (Laughter.) As he stepped out of the platform, he was surrounded by that night. When he first heard that of the moment by some of his friends, he went to those whom he thought were taking an active part, and detained them. He was not a man who was not effectively crushed the thing out. A few moments afterwards he heard it was on foot again, and he called upon them, and they told him rather blantly that they were not going to do it, and that it was too far gone to be stopped. He said, and it was an effective step. They were thinking of getting it neatness of money, but he said he should not pocket a penny. He had generally had an objection to testimonials. He had subscribed to many in his life, but he knew what was often behind the scenes in testimonials; and if he thought it had been got up in order to whitewash some black spot in his life, he should have publicly protested against it going on. (Laughter and applause.) That night whilst sitting there, listening to the too kind remarks of the chairman and their worthy archdeacon, he had thought who could have expected that, in the commencement of life, with the buff-tings and passion, and how ing, for in early days they fought with boats at Ephesus—who could have thought that in the space of thirty years such a change would have come over public opinion, that the individual or individuals who had at that time been called “fanatics,” should be recognised by an assembly like the present to receive the congratulations from gentlemen whose letters had been read there that night? That was what gave him the courage to stand there. In conclusion, the speaker said he was desirous to administer justice between the public and those on the other side of the MUSIC HALL, CORNETT.—During the past week the entertainments at the Music Hall have been all that the most fastidious could desire. The various artistes are well known, and occupy very distinguished positions in their profession. The performances of Mr. and Mrs. Cone, first-class vocalists, and Mr. Baker, a well-known tenor; Mr.

Quartet; and Emily Lazar, baritone soloist; F. Dart, the inimitable female impersonator; and Murphy and O'Brien duologue artists, gave great satisfaction. The greatest treat of the evening appeared to be the performances of the musical clowns, Meers, Buckley and Brydge, who manipulate on the harm-onium, cornet, violin, guitar, and two common tin whistles, which they play at the same time; and, although they produced splendid music, they kept the audience in a continued roar of laughter.
