JAN HUMMAGE SALE AT SHOTLEY BRIDGE.

day, a most novel feature in the shape of a Rummage Sale was held in the hall, Stanley Bridge, in aid of the Homeless shelter, Stanley Bridge, and the branch from the Cathedral Newmarket, Newmarket. There were five stalls with clothing, rugs, carpets, crockery, linens of useful and ornamental goods. These were second-hand, and were sold at low prices. There was also a stall of new needlework. The sale was got off to a very successful start, and the proceeds for the same, in order to make it a opening ceremony was performed by the superintendent, Newmarket, before the ladies in attendance at the sale. Mrs Booth, Mrs Richards, Misses, Miss Kennis, Mrs Falconer, Mrs tion of his features, as piece after piece, and the audience, in the ordering of "The courtship of Godfrey" was provoked to incessant laughter, but when the Professor named pieces as "Horatius defending the wall" "The women of Samaria" altogether changed, and no other was heard than that of his own rich wit. The humour of Mark Twain and the wit of Cassius suffered nothing, and the Professor was equally the pathetic, or dramatic pieces. The chairman was light lured, and after speech, setting forth the objects of the Christian League, and the necessity, the chairman retired in favour of the speaker, who went straight through his programme at the slightest hitch. Programme completed—Horatius defending the wall—The women of Samaria—

The audience had, so far, received their appreciation except stilted and frequent laughter, and a lack of interest in the programme. The different recitals, the singing, and the climax arrived, and the room in applause. The engagement proved very way, and the committee hope to have a further series of "Lirio" dramatic plays, may always hereafter rely on the hearty reception at Consett. A very programme has been arranged by the Young Society, and the present season to be an eminently successful
