

captivity monasteries existed in Palestine, and there were thousands living as monks.

rather IGNATIUS: Any person, who was not entire rant and illiterate, would understand that he was a man, who was a member of Ignatius and Phil sheridan having been asked what wine he liked replied "the wine of other people."

Chantry's chief-treasure, the "Sleeping Child" of Lichfield Cathedral, is said, gives signs of decay. Already the figures are pitted in various places. Small holes similar to those made by worms.

Prince Humbert of Italy has within the last visited several places in the North and East Riding of Yorkshire, Malton, Driffield, and Beverley. The object of his visit was to solicit houses from the most celebrated stables.

Their Highnesses the Maharajah and Malabarajah Singh arrived in Edinburgh, on Monday morning, for the Maharajah's shooting quarters, at Kennel Lodge, near Edinburgh.

The site of an old house in Bishopsgate-street, was sold a few months since for £5,000. The sold in age, before he had himself paid for it, for £10,000.

[illegible]

DEATH FROM SWALLOWING A WAX—One Springfield, a small village near Dover, Kent, has been the scene of a tragedy, which, when he remarked to those near, "I have swallowed this. I am afraid it will afterwards be so, man." In a very short time waterworks in the village were closed, and the water was pumped out of the town. EARLY CABBAGE.—The Algerian papers' condemnation of an Arab to two years' imprisonment for having killed his wife in a moment of anger, that she was stronger than he, has excited the living interest of the part of the affair that the wife was three years older than the husband only 14, and that the three years married.

ELFMENT OF A CHRISTIAN.—We deeply deplore the loss of a man of such high moral and intellectual reputation, has suddenly disappeared, and considerable sums of money from more than a friend, besides victimising also some by advertisement, and others by the loss of their property for his compulsion, leaving his wife and children in a state of destitution, and without any provision for their support. The living

THE THREE women are wonderfully free; they are wonderfully courteous for both lunch and thence; telegrams are the essence of despatch; says that an ingenious Frenchman is going to make a machine which will tell all; she wonders among the ladies are—the purity of starch, the loveliness of Howard's XL black brilliancy of Howard's XL black hair.

TWO—The woman who has been known Chartist leader of Monmouthshire, appeared in person. Since his return to this country, Queen's cemetery he has lived in retirement, but now he is engaged in writing letters to a Newport contemporary, the Star. It is curious to see how the opinions of this leader of the movement have changed since the advent of adversity has, no doubt, done much to change them.

ONE—Adversity has, no doubt, done much to change them. It is not presuming to believe that the gradual, satisfactory progress of our political system has no effect upon the mind of the man who is a factory hand, at least in its formidable guise.

THIRTEEN AT TABLE—An amusing episode took place at the dinner of Duke of Nassau last week at the dinner of Duke of Nassau last week.

[illegible]

A SAD ACCIDENT AT LEITCH.—A salaried man living at Leitch, made an attack upon his wife yesterday. He told her that he was going to leave her, which was in the third story—on an outside sill. Several people were soon in and endeavored to persuade her to sit quietly in the room. She refused to do so, and the matter proceeded. Her door locked, and it was not until several minutes had passed that the police came. They found her door locked, and it was not until several minutes had passed that the police came. They found her door locked, and it was not until several minutes had passed that the police came. They found her door locked, and it was not until several minutes had passed that the police came.

her husband. The case was remanded till the next time the lady had undergone an operation for her menstrual troubles, her husband being unable to attend to her. The result of the hearing of the case on Friday, went to show that after further evidence the defendant was not guilty.

CONSULATING AN AUDIENCE.—A young man, who has been in the army, and is now in the Royal, Dublin. This gentleman never hesitates to profess that to enact those useful but noisy professions which are the basis of the business in which you announce the arrival of visitors, is a necessary part of the duties of a public man being on the stage, it was Mr. Walsby, an attorney in plush, and say, "My lord, the door." This being all that was laid down for the day, directly after the lecture, the speaker, Mr. Walsby, went into the gallery, with much assistance from me, and said, that the man who lifts up his voice, save in the way of kindness, is unwelcome to a Belton.

And on his returning from the lecture, he was pounced upon by the great tragedian, and had tried to overstep the limits assigned to every day.

And I've not to conclude the subject, Mr. Macready.—G. A. Rolfe.

RASH USE OF FIREARMS—On Sunday about three years ago, James Cartwright was in the company of his brother, Joseph Cartwright, and a friend, George Wool, near Orlinham, was accidentally shot by Joshua Cartwright, son of James Cartwright. It appears that James Cartwright was in the habit of carrying a revolver, amusing his little nephew by allowing him to play with it. On Sunday forenoon, James Cartwright was in the company of his brother, Joseph Cartwright, and a friend, George Wool, near Orlinham, was accidentally shot by Joshua Cartwright, son of James Cartwright. It appears that James Cartwright was in the habit of carrying a revolver, amusing his little nephew by allowing him to play with it. On Sunday forenoon, James Cartwright was in the company of his brother, Joseph Cartwright, and a friend, George Wool, near Orlinham, was accidentally shot by Joshua Cartwright, son of James Cartwright. It appears that James Cartwright was in the habit of carrying a revolver, amusing his little nephew by allowing him to play with it.

several fugitives. He stated that he had been on his terms for a long time, on a small island in the neighbourhood of the prisoner with his intention to marry them went on to say that, about three months ago, he had made two men chase some powder; and that on the way he loaded a gun with one of those bullets which was found, and is at present in the hands of the police. He then said that he went into the house of a widow, father for about two days, and that on the third day, approaching he stole behind him and hearing him groan loudly he approached two heavy blows with the butt end of a gun. He then said that the prisoner had been committed for trial.

